STATEMENTS ABOUT TRUSTS MADE TO-DAY BY PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AT PROVIDENCE.

"I believe that the nation must assume this power of control by legislation, and if it becomes evident that the Constitution will not permit needed legislation, then by Constitutional amendment.

"Still there is other harm, of a more evident kind, and such harm it is our clear duty to try to eradicate if possible, and in any event to minimize. The corporations, and therefore those great corporations containing some tendency to monopoly which we have grown to speak of rather loosely as trusts, are the creatures of the state, and the state not only has the right to control them, but is in duty bound to control them wherever the need for such control is shown."

HERLIHY'S MAN IS A FUGITIVE FROM JUSTICE.

'Arrest Reagan on Sight,' Is the Order Sent Out from Headquarters.

INDICTED FOR PERJURY.

Red Light Captain's Wardman's Testimony at His Own and His Commander's Trials the Cause.

Police Headquarters, No. 300 Mulberry Street, N. Y. To Precinct Commanders, other officers and patrolmen of the New York Police Department: Arrest on sight Stephen J. Reagan, who is wanted for perjury. Was lately attached to the East Sixty-seventh street station and formerly stationed in the "Red Light" district under Capt. Herlihy. Is now under indictment. Any information to Reagan's whereabouts must be sent at once to this office.

(Signed) MOSES W. CORTRIGHT, Inspector.

The above official general order was sent out over the police wires to-day for the arrest of ex-Wardman Stephen J. Reagan. On Thursday he was indicted by the Grand Jury for perjury in having sworn falsely both at his own trial and that of Capt. Herlihy. In the first instance Reagan, who was Herlihy's right-hand man when the latter was in command of the Red Light district, swore that he did not know a woman named Minnie Weiner, the alleged proprietress of a disorderly house on Allen street. At a subsequent trial he testified not only that he knew the woman, but had visited her at her house three times a week for a period of fourteen months. Reagan was finally dismissed from the force for his neglect to close disorderly resorts and also for disobedience. Charges later preferred against him by the District Attorney also included bribery. The latter charge was stricken out by the Grand Jury.

Notified of Reagan's indictment, Commissioner Partridge detailed several detectives to hunt for Reagan, but they have reported that they could not find him. To-day the District Attorney's office remained open until 2 o'clock to give Reagan a chance to appear before a request was made to have the general order of arrest sent over the wires. He did not put in an appearance.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Aug. 23.—Clarance A. Plank, Police Judge of Springfield, O., committed suicide at a hotel here to-day by taking poison. He arrived here yesterday from Memphis. He left three letters, one to a newspaper, another to a brother at Kansas City and a third to his wife.

One letter said he was short $4,300 and that the money had gone to politicians and others "as had been charged." He denounced Springfield politics.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 23.—The third week of Saratoga's meeting came to an end with to-day's racing.

Four days more of the gayeties at the Springs, and then race-goers will turn once more to the broad stretches at Sheepshead and the running of the $60,000 Futurity. Saratoga has had a remarkably successful season and it is impossible to predict the future. It will certainly become the most important racing centre in this country.

The stake features this afternoon were the Saratoga Cup, at a mile and six furlongs, the Adirondack Handicap for two-year-olds, and the Shillelagh Steeplechase. It was expected that Miss Alice Roosevelt, daughter of the President, would witness the running of the Saratoga Cup, but she did not put in an appearance.

The three features drew out one of the largest crowds of the meeting. There was no seating room left in the grand and many people were compelled to stand up during the afternoon.

The weather was charming, though threatening showers. The track was slow in drying out and was a bit heavy in spots. Otherwise all conditions favored excellent sport.

Special to The Evening World.

BALL GROUND, ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 23.—The Giants and Patsy Donovan's cardinal-stocked ball players of this city were in the fettle to-day.

Players of both teams did not meet yesterday of the strenuous nature and they gave this afternoon promise to give one of the best of the season in this town.

The New Yorkers are out to make a record of winning games this trip, and they have a good start. Five victories in seven games is their record.

The Giants respect the playing powers of the Donovans, and all say if they take one of the two teams to be played here they will be satisfied.

"If I had New York's pitchers right," said Patsy Donovan, "I would be fighting Brooklyn for second place before the end of the season. They are all stars, and next year New York will surely have a one, two, three team."

"I know things I cannot talk about. The team as it is all right, but it will be improved 100 per cent. before next spring."

"As for St. Louis, it will be a dandy. The local American League team will find itself short some of its stars, for the boys want are coming back to the old camp."

As the Evening World stated, when all were claiming Coughlin, the Washington player was the shortstop.

McGraw had secured Elberfeld, of Detroit, to play short next year. A close friend of McGraw's, Elberfeld vouches for the information, and the way all of the ex-Baltimore players talk of the fellow's work is sufficient to corroborate the story.

McGraw, of course, was not with his team this afternoon, but the organization, as it was, looked pretty good.

Frank Bowerman, owing to the injury received to his face in the game with Pittsburgh (a wire of his mask was driven in his forehead by a foul tip) said he didn't think he could put a mask on to-day, and Acting Manager Smith decided to work him in right field and let Breenahan go in behind the bat to take the shots as delivered by Luther Taylor.

TWO CHILDREN HIT BY TRAIN

Boy of Four Killed Outright, Girl of Seven is Dying.

While playing about the New York Central Railroad tracks at Ninety-sixth street and Twelfth avenue to-day, Willie Achille, four years old, of No. 807 Amsterdam avenue, was struck by a train and instantly killed. The little fellow's companion, Julia Mayer, seven years old, of No. 72 West Ninety-sixth street, was struck by the same train in a short distance from where the little boy was killed and received a severe scalp wound and concussion of the brain. She was taken to J. Hood Wright Hospital, where it was stated she would probably die.

NATION MUST RULE TRUSTS--ROOSEVELT.

President Takes Advance Ground Concerning the Control of Giant Combines and Declares Regulation by Federal Government Is Necessary.

On the second day of his tour of New England President Roosevelt began unfolding his policy in relation to trusts. He asserted that some sovereign power was necessary to regulate combinations and pointed out that State laws had proved inadequate.

The President's tour was one continuous ovation. Tremendous crowds greeted him at Willimantic, where the first stop and first speech of the day were made, at Pawtucket and at Providence.

What the President said in his speeches is given below.

AMEND CONSTITUTION, SAYS ROOSEVELT, TO GIVE NATION POWER OVER COMBINES.

Some governmental sovereign must be given full power over these artificial and very powerful corporate beings. In my judgment this sovereign must be the national government.

—President in Providence speech.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 23.—President Roosevelt in his speech here to-day said:

"We are passing through a period of great material prosperity, and such a period is as sure as adversity itself to bring about a feeling of discontent. At a time when most men prosper somewhat it always happens that a few men prosper greatly, and it is as true now as it was when the Tower of Babel fell upon all who were under it that good fortune does not come only to the just nor bad fortune only to the unjust. When the weather is good for the crops it is also good for weeds. Moreover, not only are the wicked flourish when the times are such that most men flourish, but what is worse, the spirit of envy and jealousy and hatred springs up in the breasts of those who, though they may be doing fairly well themselves, yet see others, who are no more deserving, doing far better.

"Fearlessness is needed.

"Wise laws and fearless and upright administration of the laws can give the opportunity for such prosperity as that we see about us. But this is all that they can do. When the conditions have been created which make prosperity possible, then each individual man must achieve it for himself by his own thrift, intelligence, energy, industry and resourcefulness.

"If when people was fat they kick, as they have been prone to do since the days of Jerahmeel, they will speedily destroy their own prosperity. If they go into wild speculation and lose their heads, they have lost that which no legislation can supply, and the business world will suffer in consequence.

"If in a spirit of sullen envy they insist upon pulling down those who have profited more by the years of fatness they will bury themselves in the crash of the common disaster. It is difficult to make our material condition better by the best laws, but it is easy enough by bad laws to throw the whole nation into an abyss of misery.

"Now, the upshot of all this is that it is peculiarly incumbent upon us in this time of such material well being, both collectively as a nation and individually, each on his own account, to show that we possess the qualities of prudence, self-knowledge and self-restraint. In our government we need above all things stability, fixity of economic policy, while remembering that this fixity must not be fossilization, that there must not be inability to shape our course anew to meet the shifting needs of the people as these needs arise.

Great Evils in Our Life.

"There are real and great evils in our social and economic life, and these evils stand out with ugly boldness during good times, for the wicked who prosper are never a pleasant sight. There is every need of striving in all possible ways, individually and collectively, by combinations among ourselves in private life and through the recognized organs of government, for the cutting out of these evils. Only let us be sure that we do not use the knife with an ignorant zeal which would make it more dangerous to the patient than to the disease.

"One of the features of the tremendous industrial growth of the last generation has been the very great increase in large private, and especially large corporate, fortunes. We may like this or not, just as we please, but it is a fact, nevertheless, and as far as we can see it is an inevitable result of the work which has been the immense importance steam and electricity have assumed in modern life.

"Urban population has grown in this country, as in all civilized countries, whole during the last century, and where men are gathered together in great masses it inevitably results that they must work far more largely by means of combinations among themselves than ing good times, for the wicked who prosper are never a pleasant sight.
